"I think it's fair to say I have my finger on the pulse when it comes to learning and development. I am currently Head of Learning & Development of the Bachmann Group (www.bachmanngroup.com) and also sit on the local CIPD Committee and the Life Long Learning Committee for the States of Guernsey. Research for my MBA dissertation explored into the impact of the ageing population, workforce development and economic competitiveness which involved consultation with various local business leaders and government representatives which I have used practically to implement new initiatives that benefit the local workforce. I am committed to supporting a culture of life long learning and would be very grateful for your vote."

Thank You
